As an Intern at Decision Innovation Solutions, Rachel Sonnabend is responsible for implementing our social media strategy, as well as managing the DIS blog and web content to better communicate with our clients.

As she is originally from a small town in southern Minnesota, her passion for the agricultural industry stems from being raised on a diversified farm. Previously, Rachel was the Agronomic Intern for Cedar Family Farms in the summer of 2017 and was a Production Intern for New Fashion Pork in the summer of 2018. During her previous internships, Rachel discovered her passion was to promote agriculture in a positive manner and on a larger scale. With this in mind, she pursued a communications role with us.

Rachel is currently attending Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa and is majoring in Agricultural Business. Rachel will receive her bachelor's degree from Iowa State in the spring of 2020.
